

QUIET STUDY ROOM USE POLICY

The Quiet Study Room in the Library is available for use during normal library hours. The room is for individuals needing a quiet place to study or for small groups of up to 6 people for group projects or meetings. The room is not available for commercial or “for-profit” use. There is a two-hour per day time limit on the use of the room. Library staff may extend use of the room when no one is waiting. You may reserve a time to use it in advance at the Circulation Desk, otherwise, the room is available on a first come, first serve basis. An adult must accompany children under 11 years of age who are using the room. No eating or drinking is allowed in the room. Misuse of the Quiet Study Room may result in the loss of study room privileges. The program and meeting needs of the Library will take precedence.
